

PHILOSOPHY
(specialty 09.00.13)

Ermakov V.P. Interpretation of spiritual culture crisis within Russian philosophy

The specificity of the spiritual crisis lies in individual's autonomy and spiritual values destruction. Spiritual crisis possesses autonomy that expresses man's autonomy in culture and society, so crisis of man and culture society are interconnected. It can not be considered that one of them is primary and another – secondary. Material and economic crisis is likely to be caused by man and culture crisis. For example, immorality of political elite, corruption and economic elite tendency for welfare provoke crisis itself.

Key words: spiritual crisis, spiritual culture, art, morality, man, individuality, autonomy.

*Armavir orthodox-and-social
institute*

June, 10, 2010

Gevorkyan R.A. New religious movements spreading in modern Russian society

It is analyzed the problem of new religious movements spreading in modern Russian society, so their scientific investigation, defining their place and role in terms of modern urban society seems rather topical. It is shown that new religions of renewal type are the most adoptive for the conditions of modern urban civilization. They involve technical and technological opportunities of modern civilization in their activity – telecommunication means, marketing techniques that are used in mission activity etc., and aimed at satisfying citizens demands, oriented on people of different social classes.

Key words: new religious movements, traditional religions.

North-Caucasus scientific center of High school SFedU

June, 21, 2010

Kotlyarova V.V. Specificity of culture axiological investigations in Russian philosophy at the end of XIX-beginning XX centuries

The article is dedicated to the topical questions of the axiological investigations specificity in Russian religion philosophy. Special attention is paid to the axiological approach to culture investigation in Russian religion philosophy. It is analyzed philosophic views of V.S. Solovyev, N.O. Losskiy, N.A. Berdyev as the basis of culture axiological investigation. Attention is accentuated on the value problematics of philosophic ideas in Russian literature.

Key words: value, axiology, culture, spirituality, Orthodox, collegiality, freedom, morality.

*South-Russian state university
of economics and service*

June, 17, 2010

Krivykh I.E. Mystic experience: integrity in multidimensionality

Mysticism as religious-and-philosophic outlook was historically formed within the dialogue of rationalistic and irrationalistic traditions. The unique alloy of various cultures elements of philosophising, coexistence of various tendencies have generated a number of features, characteristic of a mystical discourse. And, first of all, such feature is personal mystical experience, its rationalistic and narrative character that is demonstrated in a formal-and-logic articulation of spontaneous acts of spirituality. The mysticism contains two measurements of spirituality, rational and irrational, which evidently contradict each other. But they also are connected as empirical finiteness of life and its infinite sense. To understand mysticism is possible only considering its multidimensionality in a wider aspect: presence of social, cultural and anthropological measurements. The mysticism demands further research in the aspect of social determination of this spiritual phenomenon.

Key words: spiritual experience, mysticism, cognition, culture, personality, society, freedom, creativity, intuition.

*Armavir orthodox-and-social
institute*

June, 10, 2010

Novgorodskaya N.E. Politics philosophy: problem of political competence of modern young people

It is presented experience of study-and-methodic work on drama application in terms of culture-and-education space of high schools in the following forms: theatrical center activity (etude work and training-dramatization "Leader"), information self-education of students on political-and-law problems, social-and-cultural activity on training organization with students of other universities, volunteer work in microregion with voters before elections, monitoring of social situations.

Key words: politics, young people, values, society, self-consciousness.

*North-Caucasus scientific center of High school
Southern federal university*

June, 17, 2010

Roudenko A.M. Problems of the lifemeaning intentionality realization of the human existence in modern social-and-cultural reality

Problems of the lifemeaning intentionality realization of the human existence in the modern social-and-cultural reality are analyzed. The modern social-and-cultural reality is an original field of realization of the lifemeaning intentionality and it has crisis character. The most important social-and-cultural problems of the lifemeaning intentionality realization of the human existence are the threat of degeneration of mankind as a result of self-destruction, spiritual degradation, information-and-communicative crisis, philosophic-and-methodological crisis, demographic crisis, criminalization of the most important spheres of the social-and-cultural reality, crisis of family and perversity of human sexuality.

Key words: lifemeaning intentionality, existence, man, crisis, culture, society.

*South-Russian state university
of economics and service*

June, 17, 2010

Sadovo-Rumyantsev V.Ju. Individual rights in secular culture: philosophic-and-anthropological analysis

It is considered philosophic interpretation of man's individual rights system. As an example right for freethinking and atheism is taken. Atheism can be considered as a way of self-identification on the background of "freedom-from". The paradox of self-identification is that there is no distinct linking unit between social identity and anthropological identity. Such unit should exist in a developed cultural identity that has autonomy in its background. Autonomy is interpreted as a harmonic attitude of a personality towards his cultural sphere.

Key words: personality, self-identification, religion culture, secular culture, individual rights, culture history, paternalism, autonomy.

*Armavir orthodox-and-social
institute*

June, 10, 2010

Stepanyants A.R. God autonomy in classical theism

It is given modern interpretation of God autonomy as a dialectical opposition of human autonomy. There is an opportunity to record the transcendental presence as a phenomenological intention of human attitude towards social and natural world in theonomic culture. In this case autonomy is an inner moment of theonomy, and God's creative freedom is an ultimate expression of His substantial autonomy. Autonomy of social and natural world becomes relevant and even – heteronomic. Such heteronomy of the out of God world is ultimately expressed in the system of mechanic reasoning. Of course, in secular culture their correlation will be reverse, it means that latent religion is an inner moment of man's individual autonomy.

Armavir orthodox-and-social
institute

June, 10, 2010

Shapovalov V.S. Value orientations of Orthodoxy in modern Russia

Dialogue of secular representations on morality and orthodox ethics is a background on the base of which new values of enterprise culture can develop. Achievement of the Russian society unity is possible not on religious, but on a moral basis. The moral consciousness confirms value of the person, correlates it to historical self-movement of mankind. Orthodoxy occupies a more flexible position of loyalty and tolerance towards terrestrial affairs. In this respect it is possible to say that Orthodoxy is compatible to economic modernization though it does not approve cultural modernization, taking preserving conservative positions in relation to traditional values of a family, morality etc.

Key words: dialogue, culture, Orthodoxy, business, spiritual values, material values, modernization.

Armavir orthodox-and-social
institute

June, 10, 2010

(specialty 09.00.08)

Zezyulko A.V. Science and technology development peculiarities of Enlightenment: contradictory assessments formation of the science and technical process

The article is devoted to the science and technology development peculiarities of the Enlightenment period. The questions are discussed on the way the contradictory opinions on science and technical progress in science history and humanitarian ideas in the 19 century were reflected. The author analyzes the opposite viewpoints of writers and philosophers, who approve or disapprove science and technology.

Key words: science, technology, science and technical progress, Enlightenment, technological culture, positive assessment, negative assessment.

Southern federal university

May, 15, 2010

(specialty 09.00.03)

Gazaryan E.I. European civilization critics in Russian philosophy and fiction literature

It is investigated critics of European civilization in classical Russian philosophy and literature. It is stated that Russian identity is formed within the context of an extremely pointed and at the same time rather objective critics of European civilization. Russian philosophy and literature warned about the danger of European man's unidimensionality, aiming at happiness and obsessed by the pride of reason. Russian philosophy sees deep sense of man's existence also in suffering that clears a man. An adequate man, society and civilization vision begins with the critics of one-sided rationalism. Russian identity has the character of integral consciousness combining reason and values, constructing originality of culture and society.

Key words: identity, civilization, personality, technique, originality of culture, rationalism, happiness.

*Kuban state
university*

June, 26, 2010

Jurganov A.A. Subject “negativeness” in Hegel's “spirit phenomenology” and A. Kozhev's “denying nothing”

It is investigated the problem of conception of Negativeness proposed by A. Kozhev while interpreting Hegel's “Spirit phenomenology” is on the one hand, immanent idea of Hegel himself and on the other, exhausting sense content of Hegel's notion of Subject negativeness and as a result conceptual content of the whole “Spirit phenomenology”. Thus it is revealed the roots of succession and difference of classical and nonclassical Negativeness understanding that is connected with subject negativeness conception.

Key words: negativeness, subject, substance, anthropology, “Spirit phenomenology”, interpretation.

*Kuban state
university*

June, 9, 2010

SOCIOLOGY
(specialty 22.00.04)

Abdoulina S.V. Social group of mediation in Russia

Market economy development causes social changes that are expressed in new society structure that begin to produce new social groups. The article is intended to describe mediation as social group that is widely spread as in Russia and abroad, and to define mediators' activity social meaning, his social portrait and their meaningfulness.

Key words: mediator, mediation, mediation social group, market, exchange, market economy, mediator social portrait.

*Ufa state aircraft
technical university*

May, 25, 2010

Gudarenko Ju.A. Methodological basis of transformation system investigation of high professional education in Russia

It is considered methodological basis of transformation system investigation of high professional education in Russia. Specificity of social interaction of multilevel system of high professional education and a labour market is studied. While revealing and analyzing the character of interaction of a labour market and multilevel system of high professional education institutional approach was used.

Key words: multilevel system of high professional education, institutionalized analysis, structural-and-functional analysis.

Russian state social university

June, 3, 2010

(specialty 22.00.01)

Kondrashov A.V., Savchenko L.A. Dynamics of social interactions and their reflection in the structure of social communication

It is considered development of social systems from the viewpoint of their transition into the new social reality – social information system. Social relations have structures, that reflect economic relations, spiritual, management relations and other, at the same time both system and its structures have temporal characteristics. It is analyzed structures and typizations of social relations in information societies. It is highlighted the filling of social spheres by new components, and their structural-and-compositional interactions become the subject of analysis.

Key words: social system, information system, social reality, social relations.

Southern federal university

June, 27, 2010

LAW

(specialty 12.00.01)

Batsuev V.I. Independence problem of Justice of the Peace institute: new aspects

The article is devoted to one of the main problems of the definition of judicial authority's mechanism – the organization of judicial bodies. The new aspects of this problem are suggested to consideration in addition to earlier examined questions of organizational isolation and independence of Justice of the Peace in theoretical science. These aspects deal with the destination of Institute of Justice of the Peace and integration of the system of federative relations.

Key words: Justice of the Peace, justice system, judicial authority, justice, independence of judicial authority, judicial system.

*Rostov law
institute*

June, 16, 2010

(specialty 12.00.03)

Evangelevskaya L.V. Understatement of commutative contract price as hidden donation

P. 4 art. 575 of the Civil Code, prohibits the donation between commercial entities, except for ordinary gifts whose value does not exceed three thousand rubles. Alienation of property at a lower price can be found by a court sham transaction, covering the donation. This conclusion derive from the fact that the donation can occur not only in disposing of assets at no cost, but also through the sale of property by clearly lower price that represents a partial donation (for the difference between real market value of assets and the actual payment of the goods under the contract).

Key words: sham transaction, hidden donation, donation prohibition, non equivalent price, commercial entity.

Southern federal university

May, 17, 2010

PEDAGOGICS
(specialty 13.00.08)

Bobrova N.V. The construction of the mathematics textbook in accordance with pupils' individual peculiarities

It is formulated the definition of the notion of individual peculiarities. It is suggested the classification of pupils' individual peculiarities. The classification of the individual peculiarities is given according to the analysis of pedagogical-and-psychological literature. The ways of accounting pupils' individualities with a help of the mathematics textbook are outlined.

Key words: individual peculiarities, structure of educational activity, mathematics textbook.

Kaluga state university of K.E. Tsiolkovsky

May, 19, 2010

Sizova O.A. Language education at an early age – way to multilingualism

The European Union countries' activities in the field of the language training at an early age of schoolchildren are considered. Having analyzed the experiences of some European countries it can be concluded that each state even not member of EU (i.e. Switzerland), takes into account European linguistic politics and strategic plan on multilingualism development and builds its own educational linguistic paradigm.

Key words: bilingual education, multilingualism, foreign languages teaching in Europe, early teaching of foreign languages.

*South-Russian state university
of economics and service*

May, 25, 2010

(specialty 13.00.01)

Krakauskene O.P. Developing sphere of interschool educational center as a condition of social competence formation

It is analyzed conceptual basis of developing interschool sphere model of educational center as an effective condition of social competence formation; it is pointed out the essential characteristic and index of formed social competence.

Key words: education sphere, developing sphere, social competence, interschool educational center, competence approach, social activity.

Interschool educational center in Aksay

June, 3, 2010

PHILOLOGY
(specialty 10.02.19)

Vilken E.I. Gender peculiarities of food advertisement texts in women and men magazines in Russian, German and English

It is considered gender in the texts of magazine advertisement in Russian, German and English. Revealing of gender component in food advertisement texts lets study ways of gender expression in the same texts without any distinct addressee.

Key words: gender, gender stereotype, concept, advertisement addressee, primary and secondary discourse, gender aspect.

Pedagogical institute
Southern federal university

May, 12, 2010

Ostrikova G.N. On asymmetry of the verb “ABHДNGEN” opposite meanings

The article presents the description of lexical-and-semantic asymmetrical enantiosemy on the basis of the German verb “abhдngen”. We brought to light and described integral and differential components of enantonyms’ opposite meanings. The represented context confirms their belonging to one thematic group and partly to one subject. Different stylistic features and lexical combination of two opposite meanings cause their asymmetrical combination.

Key words: asymmetrical enantonyms, opposite meanings, components of the meaning, different lexical combination.

Pedagogical institute
Southern federal university

May, 20, 2010

Skorobogatova T.I. Political memory in phraseology: images created by political leaders (on the material of the French language)

The article is dedicated to thorough consideration of the process of enrichment of phraseological stock of the French language in the light of the conception of historic memory. Political memory is one of the components of historic memory. The article presents an attempt to study and give illustrative examples of the contribution of political leaders belonging to different echelons of power into the “stock” of new phraseological units. The examples reveal the linguacreative potential of political leaders who represent the elite microsocial stratum of France.

Keywords: historic memory, political memory, phraseological unit, the French language.

Southern federal university

May, 24, 2010

Souraleva O.Yu., Skorobogatova T.I. On gender balance of phraseological units characterizing intellectual consistency (French language study)

The article attempts to analyze gender potential of phraseological units nominating human intellectual consistency. It has been established on the basis of the French language material that its phraseological corpus records no essential differences in ideas of male and female intellect. Concepts such as "a smart man" and "a smart woman" are evaluated as close in intellectual properties.

Keywords: gender, phraseological units, the French language, human intellectual sphere, mind.

Southern federal university

May, 16, 2010

CULTURE SCIENCE
(specialty 24.00.01)

Konstantinova T.V. Nihilism modes in the culture of the transitive society

It is investigated nihilistic negation of different modes of time. It is shown that a nihilistic attitude to the past is not a simple refusal or a denial of traditions, it is traced a latent nihilistic attitude to the present and future.

Key words: temporal nihilism, time modes, negation.

Southern federal university

June, 2, 2010

HISTORY
(specialty 07.00.02)

Moiseeva O.V. Formation of agricultural cooperation ideology in Don forces region (second half of XIX-beginning of XX century)

It is considered ideological settings of social development in Russia. Community formation as a social institute accumulating opportunities of common living, household duties and production realization led to the formation of deep mental peculiarities. It is discussed cooperation of agricultural sector in Russia. Consequently cooperation became one of the main means of economic and spiritual village modernization, element of social structure of civil society.

Key words: ideology, community, common property, solidarity, mutual help, cooperation.

*South-Russian state
technical university*

June, 17, 2010

Sinelnikov S.P. The role of the faith teacher in religious education and children upbringing in pre-revolutionary school (on materials of magazines publication)

In pre-revolutionary school priest and faith teacher was recognized as a leader in the religious and moral education of students and the teaching of God's Law had a tremendous positive influence on the younger generation. The principal professional qualities of a teacher of God's Law revealed his religious faith, honesty, love for children, patience, tenacity and perseverance, poise, alertness, accuracy and fairness. At teaching of God's Law adverse facts were observed, which were reported in periodicals. Often, teachers showed formalism and negligence in the teaching of God's Law. However, socio-political, educational and church magazines reported remarkable faith teachers who worthily fulfill the duty of the religious education of pupils and were at the height of their ministry and vocation.

Keywords: God's Law (Zakon Bozhiy), faith teacher (teacher of God's Law), religious faith, religious education and upbringing, pre-revolutionary magazines, memories, primary school, secondary schools.

Volgograd industrial college

June, 27, 2010

Tokareva N.A. Hunger problem in 1932-1933s at North-Caucasus

It is considered period of hunger in 1932-1933s at North Caucasus. Hunger in 1932-1933 years at North Caucasus, as well as in the whole country, was caused by a policy of grain reserves applying methods of military communism. But at Northern Caucasus level of resistance to the Stalin policy of grain reserves and collectivization was much higher. At North Caucasus reprisals were directed not against separate peasants, but against whole villages.

Key words: peasants, collectivization, hunger, kulaks, poor people, peasant of medium welfare, grain reserves.

*South-Russian state university
of economics and service*

May, 26, 2010

ECONOMICS
(specialty 08.00.05)

Muratov A.S. Harmonies and harmonization in human and social sciences

It is shown that the ecological imperative of economic development, an imperative of convergent economy, anti-recessionary operation of business represent the revealing of the law of harmony. It is proved the necessity of actualization of dialectics, the system-dialectic approach to investigations. The analysis of economy laws and organization laws is held. The innovative system of laws and a paradigm of the organization (enterprise) is developed. The place of harmonization among other economic categories and laws is shown.

Key words: economy, harmony, convergence, organization, law, system, imperative, management, paradigm.

Novokuznetsk institute-branch of Kemerovo state university

June, 14, 2010

Khodorich I.A., Savel'eva O.G. Analysis of municipal economic relations system on Rostov-on-Don

It is held the analysis of municipal economic relations system in Rostov-on-Don which showed that the right of independent usage of municipal property and local budget is an economic base of local management. The constituent part of local finance is municipal budget. In accordance with the present law system it is defined a deficit character of the municipal budget due to which centralization of finance is carried out in federal and subfederal budgets. In this terms there is a task of creation and realization of rational finance and economic policy.

Key words: municipal body, economic relations, municipal property, budget.

*North-Caucasus scientific center of High school
Southern federal university*

June, 17, 2010

Saidova L.I. Reproductive population intentions in Chechen republic (according to pilot sociological survey)

On the base of a pilot survey the author analyzes reproductive intentions of population in Chechen Republic, discusses main causes as well as socioeconomic and socio-psychological factors influencing fertility and population reproductive intentions. Differentiation of fertility factors, influence of national and religious traditions on family motivations and individual need in children in Chechen population is discussed.

Key words: fertility, population reproduction, reproductive intentions, reproductive behaviour.

Chechen state university

June, 15, 2010
