

PEDAGOGY
(specialty 13.00.08)

Ermolaeva S.S. Technological design of the education process

The paper considers the problem of quality of organization of educational process. The solution of this problem was the purpose of the research. The study developed a technology of pedagogical design of quality of the organization of the educational process at the university, which is one of the key components in the system of quality assurance and management. The article presents the process of implementing this technology, the principles of learning management, pedagogical forms of interaction, the complex of pedagogical conditions that achieves pre-planned learning objectives, develops criteria for quality education and on their basis the levels of development of students in learning the humanities. The proposed technology has the property of integrity and thus the quality of organization of educational process in high school is ensured.

Key words: the technology of pedagogical designing, the criteria of quality of organization of teaching in the Institutes of higher education, the principles management, forms of interaction, the complex of pedagogical condition.

Moscow state university of technology and management of K.G. Razumovskiy.

March, 24, 2011
