Zaseeva L.T. Pedagogy, didactics and violence in education

It is considered the problem of pedagogy, didactics and violence in education from the viewpoint of historical development of various epochs. Special attention is paid to the economic and ergonomic criteria of education activity organization. It is noticed that the settings come out of teaching interests as profession and a social institution; the interests of pupils are out of attention in the given historical period. To investigate this problem it is necessary to appeal to the history of culture and society, in particular to the history of education to understand all the changes on the one hand, and on the other hand to search the periods when our present problems did not exist, and how it was all possible.

Key words: education, pedagogy, teacher, pupil, violence.
