Zharov L.V. State of sexuality in modern Russia (subjective notes on the objective process)

The research summarizes data on the statements of more than 3,000 visitors of forums of 12 specialized websites on the Internet over the past 3 years on the status and prospects of development of sexuality in contemporary Russia. Conventionally, three groups can be pointed out – "fundamentalist", "supporters of liberal values" and the "silent majority" whose views on these issues differ dramatically. Different approaches to the concept of sexual norms and deviations from it in modern Russian in comparison to those of modern sexological science are considered. It is emphasized chaotic processes with manifestations of indeterminacy and the presence of severe manifestations of sexuality in the mythology.

Key words: sex, sexuality, sexual norm.
