Bortsov Ju.S. Sociocultural innovations and education

Nowdays, when the system drastically changes the economic, cultural and spiritual life in a sociocultural serious crisis, involving different sectors of society, it is necessary to select the model of socio-cultural education. The modern system of education must be reoriented to address the problems that are new for the future of post-industrial society. In this context, particular interest causes the theory and practice of social reconstruction under which the socio-cultural nature of education is investigated.

Key words: education, innovation, new information technologies.
