

POLITICAL SCIENCE

(specialty 23.00.02)

Fedorova O.N. Role of information and psychological security of Russian citizens

The article considers the issue of information – psychological security of the individual in the conditions of informatization of the society. The impact of information and information technologies on the psyche and consciousness of people are analyzed in the article. The need of the special attention of the Government to the issue of the impact on the psychological health of citizens through information channels is reflected. Information and psychological security takes an important role in the system of information security, and as a result, is the main criterion for national security of the country. Nowadays, the threat of political order had become less noticeable, but not more dangerous. Armed conflict is moving to a new state - the information war. Therefore, the main priority of the State in providing for the security of the country - is the information-psychological security of citizens.

Key words: information-psychological security, mass media, internet, information terrorism.

Nautical state

university of admiral G.I. Nevelskiy

April, 17, 2012

---