

PHILOSOPHY
(specialty 09.00.08)

Demidchenko I.V. Language conceptualization problem in historiography: narration and constituent utterances

The formation of narrative philosophy of history is accompanied by the development of a new methodological apparatus (dictionary) that substitutes the conceptions of interpretation and explanation of the past. Narration (language) becomes the focus of philosophic and historical discussions of the XX and XXI centuries.

Key words: narration, reality, history, text, language, constituent utterances, representation, the past, epistemology.

Kuban

state university

June, 14, 2012
