

PEDAGOGY
(specialty 13.00.08)

Karpechenko A.S. Analysis of information competence level of future managers

This article is dedicated to the competence formation approach in vocational education in the modern information society. This article determines definitions of competency building approach, such as “competency” and “informational competency”, important for this work, as well as interrelation between them; opens a subject of description of informational competency components. This article describes the results of estimation of future managers’ informational competency level performed based on the developed method that includes diagnostics of maturity of informational thesaurus and three main informational competency components. It is proposed to carry out development of informational competency through implementation of integrative course.

Key words: competence, key competences, informational competence.

Kaluga college

of information technologies and management

June, 17, 2012
