

LAW
(specialty 12.00.01)

Serebryakova T.A. Formation of prosecutor's control of the Russian empire in the first half of XVIII century

The article considers the historiographical aspects of the formation of national prosecutors during the reforms of Peter the Great. Using new historiographical study it is described the legislation implemented in the course of Peter's reforms, particularly in the direction of the formation of the Russian prosecutor's office.

Key words: criminal law perspective, the history of the criminal proceedings, the prosecution, supervision, history of law and government, legal historians, the court, justice.

Southern

federal university

August, 10, 2012
