

PHILOSOPHY

specialty 09.00.11

Boukhalova N.A. Matrimony as a main mechanism of personal potential activation of senior people

In the article analysis of family relationships as the main life determinant in the late ages is done. It is because of necessity of formation of new philosophy according to increasing proportion of old people (60 years and higher). In the author's opinion it is necessary to refuse of definitions about ageing as a destructive process. The representatives of the third generation must be integrated into society, because they are carriers of social memory, which connect generations. The necessity of formation of new methodological approach to analysis of matrimonial unit of old people as the main mechanism of activation of personal potential of the old people. Family in the old ages, according to the author's opinion, is the complex phenomenon of social reality, which integrates almost all spheres of people's activity, generated the aims and strategies its social activity.

Keywords: old people, old ages, family, marriage, matrimony, value, the family of old people.

Nizhniy Novgorod state

engineering-economic institute

September, 16, 2012
