Abdoulazizov M.M. Humanization and its role in modern education

In this paper it is discussed the fundamentals and principles of technology of humanitarization and humanization, are given some recommendations for its use. It is considered humanitarian potential of modern education. It is indicated that the introduction of elements of the humanization technology can carry out every teacher, who has creativity, loves his subject, and referring to students as subjects of study. But correctly to build process of training, teachers always should remember that human thinking initially bilateral: logic and emotionally-figurative. For more high-grade introduction of technology of a humanize and a humanization in practice of educational institution, it is necessary corresponding teaching – methodical literature with sufficient humanitarian potential. It is noted that application of elements of technology of a humanization showed that at pupils interest to a subject and training as to a kind of activity in general raises.
