

PSYCHOLOGY
(specialty 19.00.01)

Tsergoy T.A. Some aspects of interconnection of physical and psychological security of students of high school

The article characterizes the concept of physical and psychological security. It settles down the topicality of human's safety from the point of the humanistic developing of the society. The article explains and characterizes external and internal typical threats disturbing a person in modern society. It provides the main subjective factors of psychological security of a person, which in its turn, is justified as a complex of factors ensuring the physical safety of a person. To begin with all the conditions to secure a person, the article gives a detailed research of the actual level of awareness of young people in the sphere of essence and points out person's security; it describes the result of aims and content of filling a form by college students. These results are defined according to the main factors: physical; psychological safety and some typical threats of the safety of students. Besides, it represents some statistics of students' self-assessment of physical and psychological safety and relationship of two types of human security.

Key words: physical security of a person, psychological security of an individuality, factors and problems of threatening to a person, correlation between the levels of psychological and physical safety of a person.

Adygei state university. Maykop, Russia

August, 10, 2013
