

PEDAGOGY
(specialty 13.00.08)

Aksyutina Z.A., Kashtanov V.L. Technology of social upbringing of cadets in education process of a military university

The purpose of this article consists in designing the technology of social education of students in the military College, the essence of which, on the one hand, is reduced to the accounting complexity in building social education, and on the other hand, the result of designing technology is an integrated system of social education of students in the military College. Novelty of research con-provided that for the first time conducted a search of pedagogical opportunities of social education of students in the conditions of receiving education in the higher military educational establishment. The technology in question of social education Tania cadets of a military Academy, enables the development of sociality future officers. The technology content included six consistently implemented by stages. Each stage is characterized by its pedagogical peculiar features, which are described in the article. Implementation of the technology of social education of students of a military Academy allows to achieve a given result - creation of the integral of a coherent system of social education of students.

Key words: social education, cadet, a military higher educational institution, educational process.

Omsk state pedagogical university. Omsk, Russia

September, 1, 2013
