

PEDAGOGY

Malin S.V.

(Ministry of physical culture, sport, tourism and youth. Krasnogorsk-7 city, Moscow region, Russia)

The problem of labor unemployment among students in Europe and the ways of its solution

The reasons of the increased employment of unemployment of young students in Europe in the modern world are considered. It is analyzed the role of the University in the process of prevention of youth unemployment. Special attention is paid to creation of the unified system of practice and employment of graduates' recruitment process at the University. It is proved the necessity of construction of the educational process in mutually beneficial cooperation of the University – employer – the students of the first courses. Examples of successful policies and measures in the field of labour education of unemployed young people are discussed. We examine the application in the countries of Europe as a pan-European systems of computer professional orientation and national technologies. The article describes the conditions for the successful prevention of youth unemployment.

Key words: youth, labour unemployment of young people, prevention of labor unemployment among young people.

January, 25, 2014
