

POLITICAL SCIENCE

Osipov A. V.

(South-Russian institute for humanities. Rostov-on-Don, Russia)

Consolidation of political power as a criterion for the stability of the political regime in Russia today: the question of the basic concepts of analysis

The article is devoted to the analysis the multilevel model to consolidate political power adequate transforming societies in transition from authoritarian to democratic rule. The article investigates the basic concepts of structural analysis of the power levels of consolidation – constitutional, mediation representative and civil consolidation.

Key words: consolidation of political power, the political regime, the constitutional consolidation, mediation representative, consolidation of civil society.

January, 26, 2014
