Explication of the category of "fulfillment" as a key theoretical and interpretative component of being

The article is devoted to clearing of semantic modifications of the concept "fulfillments", put forward as fundamental category in system of creation of ontological and anthropological representations. The infinitive nature of this category defining specifics of its comprehension is emphasized. The author makes an attempt of detection of the semantic contents and intrinsic characteristics of "fulfillment" on the basis of its interpretation in line with existential ontology. The prospect of clearing of depth of existential and ontological meanings of "fulfillment" opened from positions of nonlinear logic of thinking is shown. According to the author, on the basis of further study of a concept "fulfillment" becomes possible formation of "an existential fulfillment of the personality" as process of complete ontologic execution.

Key words: fulfillment, existential ontology, self-finding event, openness, existential fulfillment of the personality.
