

PEDAGOGY

V. Ponomareva, O. Dyshekova (Russian customs academy, Rostov branch. Rostov-on-Don, Russia)

Linguistic peculiarities of professional thesaurus formation in the English language teaching of the Customs profile students

The article deals with the main ways of forming professional thesaurus among students, studying Customs business. The authors stress that the professional lexicon enlargement among students studying Customs business may be realized with the help of different types of language activity: with professional texts customs, economic and legal issues; study special topics for the development of oral speech in the professional category; study of vocabulary-minimum in the relevant specialty. Interdisciplinary communication and interactive forms of learning are necessary condition for the formation, accumulation and systematization of knowledge and skills of professional and subject to the nature of the English language.

Key words: professional lexicon, interdisciplinary communication, Customs business, foreign language learning.

October, 23, 2016