Social entropy and socio-political uncertainty in the space of the reproduction of social reality in the Russian society

The reproduction of social reality as the maintenance, conservation and change in the society is clearly "inscribed" in the coordinates of social when cultural transformation of the socio-political uncertainty in the space of the reproduction of social reality is closely connected with the factor of power and the political elite. Socio-political uncertainty exists in the conditions when it is not clear, neither the nature nor the number of possible solutions or outcomes of the proposed options, i.e. in a situation when the probability of any event cannot be established. Socio-political uncertainty in the space of the reproduction of social reality is presupposed by a controversial course of political transformation in Russia.

Key words: social entropy, social reality, socio-political uncertainty, reproduction of social reality.
