

PHILOSOPHY

Rosa K. Shamileva

(Grozny state petroleum technical university of M.D. Millionschikov, Grozny, Russian Federation)

Justice model in terms of interests and demands

The problem of justice: the need for objective research and study of social interests and the needs of various social groups, individuals as the basis for the realization of social justice, is conceptually justified. The scientific literature cites the philosophical definition of justice, which characterizes it as a general principle, sanctioning the organization of people's living together, which is viewed mainly from the point of view of conflicting desires, interests and obligations.

Key words: social justice, social sphere, social theory, society, interests, needs, status, groups, individuals.

October 18, 2017
