

PHILOSOPHY

Natalya G. Mitina

(Far-Eastern state university of Arts. Vladivostok, Russian Federation)

Marxist gender project in dystopia of E. Zamyatin

The analysis of gender aspects of dystopia E. Zamyatin «We» has been carried out. The author determines that the project is the Marxist concept of gender and highlights its features: solution to the problem is possible only through the class approach; the liberation of women and men will occur to the destruction of private property. The implementation of these settings resulted in the rescue from «above» and the formation of a system of total control. The Soviet project was the subject of criticism in the novel by E. Zamyatin «We», where the philosopher demonstrates the result of violence over nature. E. Zamyatin acts for maintaining gender identity, against the erasure of gender differences. The gender equality issue is solved for him through the freedom of relations and feelings. It has been identified negative aspects of the Marxist conception of gender and class approach. It has been shown the result of implementing utopia in the field of gender relations.

Key words: class approach, gender project, utopia, of gender relations, gender equality.

January 12, 2018
