

PEDAGOGY

Anna D. Malysheva

(North-Eastern federal university of M.K. Ammosov. Yakutsk, Republic of Sakha, Russian Federation)

Pedagogical conditions of the competence “teamwork skills” development of technical universities students

It has been considered the problem of developing teamwork skills in the context of competence-based approach implementation, globalization and internationalization of education, the need for graduates' compliance with international standards. It is given theoretical substantiation of pedagogical conditions system for teamwork skills development, described the ways of developing such skills at an example of foreign language teaching, analyzed the results of experiment work on the problem. The purpose of this article is to highlight the most effective ways of university students' teamwork skills development. The study is based on the following methods: comparative analysis of psychological and pedagogical literature, synthesis of scientific approaches, analysis of students' projects, questionnaires, pedagogical experiment, testing.

Key words: skills, pedagogical conditions, teamwork, foreign language, communication, active learning methods.

May 12, 2018

---