To the question on the tasks of modern Russian culture

It is stated the idea of the original and independent task of Russian culture, which consists in returning to the path of "truth", "morality" and "justice" in construction the state-legal system of Russia. The notion of tolerance in Russia is clarified, which is not innovative and cannot in this form be regarded as novelty. The USSR is an example of tolerance beyond tolerance, however, one-sided tolerance, for besides the moral, material and spiritual damage of one of the sides of social interaction, the process did not develop. The results of the study made it possible to single out indicators of the relationship of the Russian ethnos with the ethnic groups that inhabited the USSR. It is proved that the essence of the process of shaping the historical path of development of Russia is determined by Orthodoxy. Because of this, the traditional task for the national thought is to try to keep the spiritual experience of Russia in a rational form, that is, to take it into account in philosophical and legal theories. The main thing in this process is the desire to solve the problem of the heritage of the world civilization through understanding, recognition, respect, and preservation of cultural diversity.

Key words: philosophy, law, rationality, knowledge, truth, morality, justice, orthodoxy, globalization, modernization, culture.
