

PEDAGOGY

Alexander A. Lunin

(All-Russian institute of training of the employees of MIA of Russian Federation. Domodedovo, Russian Federation)

Pedagogical conditions of inner affairs agency employees' readiness formation for classes on physical and fire preparation

It is considered the modern aspects of the formation of readiness of employees of internal affairs bodies for physical and fire training, in connection with the need to improve the quality of vocational training and training of employees of internal affairs bodies to perform official duties associated with the daily use of physical force and service firearms. The author focuses on the consideration of physical and fire training of employees of the internal affairs bodies as the basis of professional training of police officers. Attention is paid to the normative legal support of the activities of the internal affairs bodies in the performance of official duties, the importance of a clear implementation of the algorithm established by the legislation of the Russian Federation in the use of physical force and firearms, as well as the system of training of students undergoing training in an educational organization.

Key words: physical training, physical qualities, police officers, fire training, readiness, training, professional training, internal affairs bodies, legal basis.

March 29, 2019
