Foreign words as a factor in the emergence of a linguistic conflict

Currently, there is an acute question of legal protection of the language from destructive influence from the outside – from the dominance of Anglicism, the question of protecting individual rights to the comfortable use of the mother tongue. A language that, like cultural values or natural resources, belongs to all representatives of linguistic culture. It needs protection and security. The functioning of the natural language is also subject to legal regulation restricting the use of Anglicism in certain situations.

Key words: borrowing, Anglicism, legal linguistics, linguistic conflict.
