

PHILOSOPHY

Igor N. Yablokov, Natalia I. Yablokova

(Moscow State University of M. V. Lomonosov. Moscow, Russian Federation; Moscow State Technology University "Stankin". Moscow, Russian Federation)

Religious relations in sociological and socio-psychological dimensions

Religious relations are considered from the point of view of the unity of sociological and socio-psychological approaches, taking into account the central concepts of these approaches – “social” and “communication”. The specifics, types, nature and place of religious relations in the system of public relations are revealed. The influence of religious relations on other social relations and on the social system as a whole is shown. Interreligious and ethno-religious conflicts are analyzed.

Key words: sociology, social psychology, social, socio-psychological communication, religious relations, the nature of religious relations, religious conflicts.

January 23, 2020
