Determination and explanatory ideas possibilities (part 3)

The final part of the article reveals the determinative and explanatory possibilities of ideas in relation to social life at the present stage of world development. Continuing to consider the influence of Protestant ideas on the modern world order, the author highlights the key meanings inherent in them, the axiological significance of which allowed them to find practical embodiment outside the borders of countries, most of whose population belongs to representatives of this confession. On the example of the post-socialist world, the author substantiates the importance of the obligatory adaptation of social ideas to the national context. In conclusion, the results of the study are summed up and prospects for the body of future scientific works are outlined.

Key words: idea, society, thinking, social transformations, criticism.
