

PHILOLOGY

Marina V. Laskova, Anna V. Poloyan

(Southern federal university, Rostov-on-Don, Russian Federation)

From the experience of teaching translation: prospects and innovations

It is considered the prospects for training specialists in the field of translation practice, in particular, we are talking about the active use by undergraduates of the program "Translation in the field of legal and economic communication" of the products of the company Memsource, which is implemented at the Department of Translation and Information Technologies in Linguistics of Southern federal university. The following prospect is positioned: the linguistic services industry will continue to build an organic collaboration between artificial intelligence technologies and professional translators.

Key words: automated translation, Memsource, translation management system, post-editing.

October 18, 2021
