Features of the religious consciousness formation in the context of legal culture

It is considered the essence and specificity of the legal culture of an individual as a set of spiritual and practical abilities that allow to build civilizational relationships that meet moral and legal criteria with other individuals, as well as structures of civil society and state institutions. The analysis of the legal culture of an individual is considered in the context of the system-forming components of law (culture, idea, duty, morality, freedom, etc.). An attempt is made to make a logical and epistemological analysis of the features of the formation of religious consciousness in the context of legal culture.

Key words: state, law, culture, personality, legal state, political and legal culture.
