Problems of the formation of anti-terrorism consciousness (on the materials of the Nizhny Novgorod region)

It is considered the formation of anti-terrorist consciousness as one of the most important tasks in the activities of executive authorities and local self-government, as well as to identify issues that stand in the way of solving this problem. The reasons for the emergence of the ideas of terrorism and their penetration into our society are clarified. The socio-philosophical foundations of the formation of anti-terrorist consciousness as one of the most important tasks in the activities of executive authorities and local self-government are considered. The practical implementation of the formation of anti-terrorist consciousness as one of the most important tasks in the activities of executive authorities and local self-government is described. Recommendations have been developed to improve the activities to form the anti-terrorist consciousness of the population.

Key words: anti-terrorist consciousness, bodies of executive power and local self-government, ideas of terrorism, unsustainable development, global inequality.
