

PHILOSOPHY

Evgeny N. Moskalev

(Don state technical university, Rostov-on-Don, Russian Federation)

Specifics of the evolution of the human axiosphere in the Western European and Eastern culture of marriage and family relations

It is considered the structure of the family in Western and Eastern cultures and the influence of differences existing in these systems on the value and moral education of a person. It is analyzed the concepts of "family", "family values", "family crisis". The author has attempted to find patterns in the relationship of marriage and family principles in the country with the level of its axiological development. It is studied in detail the differences in relations between members of Western and Eastern families, differences in the Western and Eastern way of education, as well as differences in the relationship between parents and children in the West and in the East.

Key words: axiosphere, values, family, marriage, marital and family relations, Western European and Eastern cultures, social institution, socialization of personality, child-parent relations.

January 25, 2023
