

PHILOSOPHY

Babenko A.I.

(Donetsk national medical university of M. Gorky, Donetsk, Russian Federation)

Global infosociogenesis: to the problem analysis of alternatives of the world development

It is considered modern processes of transformation of humanity to the level of the global information society. It is argued that the global information society is a natural historical process that covers all countries and regions. As a research method, a dialectical-materialistic position is used, which allows us to assert the possibility of alternative development of the world in the conditions of infosociogenesis. The alternatives of human development in the conditions of global informatization and computerization, positive and negative aspects of this process are analyzed. The place and role of Russia in the processes of global information transformation, its spirituality and humanism are shown.

Key words: infosociogenesis, global information society, alternatives to world development, information, global transformation, subjects of history.

February 20, 2023

---