Science and myth as the bases for modern culture transformations

It is considered the problem of interaction between science and mythology in modern culture. Based on a comparative analysis of research in the field of philosophy of science, social and cultural anthropology, as well as religious studies, approaches are considered to explain the place and role of the irrational in the formation of the intellectual field of modern society.

Key words: scientific knowledge, mythology, quasi-scientific thinking, crypto-religious consciousness, cyber identity.
