

PHILOLOGY

Ilya I. Fedotov

(Military university of Prince Alexander Nevsky of the Ministry of Defense of the Russian Federation, Moscow, Russian Federation)

Military-political discourse as a form of embodiment of oral and written speech works

It is considered the features of military-political discourse as a form of embodiment of oral and written speech works. The concepts of speech work, text, discourse are considered. Actual examples of oral and written speech works from political communications of Russian and American politicians as well the system of documents of military-political international organizations are provided. The purpose of the research is to study military-political discourse as a special form of oral and written speech works. As a result, the differences between the oral and written forms of speech works of military-political discourse are revealed, which consist in the purpose, the addressee, as well as the level of formality and clarity.

Key words: military-political discourse, speech work, text, oral speech, written form.

January 26, 2023
