Use of authentic video materials at military university foreign language classes

The expediency of using authentic video materials at military university foreign (Russian) language classes is under review. It is highlighted that use of video materials is an integral part of education and facilitates development of speech activity of foreign students. Besides, it motivates them to study the Russian language. The potential of working with authentic videos is demonstrated on a fragment about the Russian bomber aviation history.

Key words: authentic video materials, foreign (Russian) language, foreign students, speech activity, stages of working with video clips.
