National idea and nation idea: non-identity of social being phenomena

It is described the problem of differentiation of such relevant concepts of today's sociocultural life as "national idea" and "idea of the nation". Their difference is shown from the position of ethno-cultural identity and their meaning in its context. The nationalism of the national idea is the nationalism of cultural continuity and civilizational identity. The nationalism of the idea of a nation expresses the idea of a globalized mass with its recognition of the end of ethno-cultural subjectivity as the main creator of the social. The self-actualization of the continuity of the Russian civilizational code, based on the national idea, is in conflict with the mass of the idea of the nation that requires imitative nationalism. It is this essential difference that can become one of the urgent problems of socio-philosophical discourse.

Key words: national idea, nation idea, people, mass, ethnocultural identity, continuity, subjectivity, ideology, originality.
