

PHILOLOGY

Taisiya D. Magomadova

(Grozny State Oil Technical University, Grozny, Russian Federation)

English-language borrowings in modern Russian: ways of their penetration

It is considered English-language borrowings and ways of their penetration into the modern Russian language. The relevance of the research is determined by the need to study borrowings in order to form communicative competence. The research material was English-language borrowings collected during the study of scientific and educational literature. Scientific research of foreign-language borrowings in modern Russian contributes to the development of linguistic consciousness and culture of native speakers; correct use of foreign words in the language; development of linguistic foundations of linguistic policy in all spheres of public life and conditions for the preservation of the native language as one of the important components of national culture.

Key words: anglicisms, bilingualism, borrowing, foreign words, vocabulary, vocabulary, language.

September 17, 2023
