Features of the implementation of linguistic conflict genens in a speech situation of conflict (based on the English language)

The development of conflict speech situations is considered. In the linguistic aspect, the course of a conflict speech situation presupposes the presence of conflictogens, which include various means, for example, the use of agnonymous words, i.e. words provocateurs, functioning within the framework of non-cooperative discourse. The conflictogenic potential of agnonymic words has not yet been the object of special research. Some examples of the actualization of specific conflictogens in newspaper discourse based on the material of the English language are given.

Key words: conflict, non-cooperative discourse, conflict speech situation, speech act, agnonym words, conflictogen.
