The problem of happiness in the philosophy of I. Kant

The phenomenon of happiness in the philosophy of I. Kant is analyzed. His understanding of happiness is considered in such well-known works as "Criticism of practical Reason", "Fundamentals of the Metaphysics of Morals", "Anthropology from a pragmatic point of view". It is shown that the philosopher does not deny happiness in the sensual world. However, he believes that happiness alone is not enough, because man has reason, and therefore his happiness cannot be reduced only to satisfying animal instincts.

Keywords: happiness, categorical imperative, man, reflection, reason, self-knowledge, freedom, goodwill.
