Socio-philosophical analysis of addictions in modern society

This article analyzes some of the most current addictions, the reasons for their occurrence, considers their impact on humans and social processes. It is shown that the problem of dependencies is global. Each arises for several subjective and objective reasons. However, many conditions, such as the Internet, cannot be excluded, as it is currently an important environment for communication, for work, and for finding the necessary information. Special attention is paid to Internet addiction as a way of life and socialization in the modern digital space.

Key words: personality, culture, norm, addiction, addiction, internet addiction, social phenomenon, socialization, communication.
