

PEDAGOGY

Alexander N. Tomilin

(Admiral F. Ushakov Maritime State University, Novorossiysk, Russian Federation)

Formation of state patriotism among cadets of the Maritime University as an urgent pedagogical problem

The relevance of the formation of a high level of state patriotism among future civil servants, specialists of domestic maritime transport, is substantiated. Based on the views of Russian scientists, the essence of state patriotism is clarified. The author's definition of this phenomenon is given. The main characteristics of state patriotism and the factors of its demand by cadets of maritime universities are revealed. Organizational and pedagogical measures for the introduction of state patriotism in the maritime university are proposed.

Key words: relevance, state patriotism, cadets, maritime university, patriotic education, pedagogical problem, education.

April 28, 2025